

House of Barnard

By John P. Fallon

This reference book is essential reading for all connoisseurs, collectors, antique dealers, auctioneers and museums interested in Victorian English silverware. Commencing in the 1760's, the first sections of "House of Barnard" trace the lives of the Barnard family and chart the history of the manufacturing firms of Emes & Barnard and Edward Barnard & Sons through the 19th century and into the early 20th century. The later sections of the book provide a detailed compilation of the silverware manufactured by the two firms, with over 680 illustrations including original ledger drawings and photographs produced by them. The illustrations, which are in both colour and black and white, cover a wide range of silverware ranging from the unusual to the priceless.

The book is published in A4 size (215mm x 300mm). It consists of 734 pages with over 680 illustrations.
